Best Years Of My Life

BY: RYAN MLKULAK

It’s been years since I’ve been to camp Talahi, but I still carry with me the many lessons I learned and friendships I made there.

I didn’t grow up with much and couldn’t afford to go to summer camp but amazingly my church, Grace UCC, was so kind and generous they sent me to Talahi for four straight years, sometimes multiple times a summer, for which I’ve always been grateful.

Talahi is an amazing, fun and inspiring place. But other than just the typical fun things you do at Talahi the one thing that always stuck with me most was that this was a place where you can actually talk about God with your peers. Now that might sound odd, but as a teenager it can be hard to talk about these things because you might be pegged as weird or not cool by others, which at that age you don’t really know yourself and just want to fit in. But at Talahi there is such openness about all the people, everyone’s faith is very personal and different, and at this one place if nowhere else there is no judgment put upon you for what you believe.

You can have open discussions about faith and many times at Talahi people opened my eyes to things that I had never thought of and are still part of my personal beliefs to this day.

I hope that Talahi can remain in our future because it will always remain in the hearts of those who attended.
